Using Your Launch Log

Engineers and scientists keep a record of their work as they design solutions and develop explanations. This record includes sketches with detailed descriptions and notes they take as they work toward a solution.

As you work on the activities, project, and problem in this module, use this Launch Log to keep a record of your work. In your Launch Log, you can create labeled sketches or include pictures you take, record notes on new ideas, answer questions about your work, and reflect on your progress.

The example below shows one way a student used the Launch Log to record their learning about the forces of flight.

Model

Use the Decision Matrix to compare multiple solutions to see how well each meets the criteria and constraints. Complete the decision matrix below or cut and glue your own decision matrix over it. Use the scale provided by your teacher.

Include a sketch of your group's chosen design below.

Include a sketch or image of your group's completed model below.
